

The cosmetic product categories as supplied in the SOW (HHSF223201010136A Modifications to the Base Year Contract) were used in this task in order to define the cosmetic product category standards. All existing and new cosmetic product labels were either mapped or re-categorized into the FDA defined cosmetic product categories.

FoodEssentials Original Cosmetic Categories

Below is the original list of cosmetic categories as created by FoodEssentials Corp. Prior to December 1st 2012, all cosmetic products on LabelBASE were categorized using the following 52 categories.

In order to accurately map and load the new cosmetic categories, several changes occurred including:

- All products loaded into the FoodEssentials Corp. database must have a tri-level category applied – an Aisle, Shelf and Product Category. Considering the proposed FDA cosmetic categories contained only a dual level category system, the decision was made to assign each Shelf and Product Category with the Aisle of COSMETICS. This enabled FoodEssentials Corp. to apply an Aisle, Shelf and Product Category to each cosmetic product in the database.
- After consulting with the FDA, it was recognized that several new product categories had to be created in addition to what was first outlined in the SOW (HHSF223201010136A Modifications to the Base Year Contract). This included:
 - “Sets & Kits” were added under each shelf in order to compensate for the larger than expected number of cosmetic gift sets. A “Sets & Kits” product category was added for the following shelves: Skin Care Preparations, Shaving and Hair Removal Products, Personal Cleanliness, Oral Hygiene Products, Manicuring and Pedicuring Preparations, Makeup Preparations (Not Eye), Hair

Preparations (Noncoloring), Hair Coloring Preparations, Fragrance Preparations, Eye Area Preparations, Bath Preparations and Baby Products.

- An entire new shelf was created called “Gift Sets & Kits”, and was designed to capture kit based products that included products with a multi-shelf coverage. For example, gift sets that included lip preparations, hair preparations and/or fragrance preparations.
- Based on communications with the FDA it was deemed necessary to include a product category for products focused on hair thickening and hair re-growth. The decision was made to create the new product category “Hair Growth Products”, and categorize this under the “Hair Preparations (Noncoloring)” shelf.

The revised master list of cosmetic categories is defined below. All additional categories are highlighted:
